THESEUS

Now, fair Hippolyta, our nuptial hour
 Draws on apace; four happy days bring in
 Another moon: but, O, methinks, how slow
 This old moon wanes! she lingers my desires,
 Like to a step-dame or a dowager
 Long withering out a young man revenue.

HIPPOLYTA

Four days will quickly steep themselves in night;
 Four nights will quickly dream away the time;
 And then the moon, like to a silver bow
 New-bent in heaven, shall behold the night
 Of our solemnities.

THESEUS

Go, Philostrate,
 Stir up the Athenian youth to merriments;
 Awake the pert and nimble spirit of mirth;
 Turn melancholy forth to funerals;
 The pale companion is not for our pomp.

Exit PHILOSTRATE

Hippolyta, I woo'd thee with my sword,
 And won thy love, doing thee injuries;

But I will wed thee in another key,
 With pomp, with triumph and with revelling.
 Enter EGEUS, HERMIA, LYSANDER, and DEMETRIUS

EGEUS

Happy be Theseus, our renowned duke!

THESEUS

Thanks, good Egeus: what's the news with thee?

EGEUS

Full of vexation come I, with complaint
 Against my child, my daughter Hermia.
 Stand forth, Demetrius. My noble lord,
 This man hath my consent to marry her.
 Stand forth, Lysander: and my gracious duke,
 This man hath bewitch'd the bosom of my child;
 Thou, thou, Lysander, thou hast given her rhymes,
 And interchanged love-tokens with my child:
 Thou hast by moonlight at her window sung,
 With feigning voice verses of feigning love,
 And stolen the impression of her fantasy
 With bracelets of thy hair, rings, gawds, conceits,
 Knacks, trifles, nose-gays, sweetmeats, messengers
 Of strong prevailment in unhardened youth:
 With cunning hast thou filch'd my daughter's heart,
 Turn'd her obedience, which is due to me,
 To stubborn harshness: and, my gracious duke,
 Be it so she; will not here before your grace
 Consent to marry with Demetrius,
 I beg the ancient privilege of Athens,
 As she is mine, I may dispose of her:
 Which shall be either to this gentleman
 Or to her death, according to our law
 Immediately provided in that case.

THESEUS

What say you, Hermia? be advised fair maid:
 To you your father should be as a god;
 One that composed your beauties, yea, and one
 To whom you are but as a form in wax
 By him imprinted and within his power
 To leave the figure or disfigure it.
 Demetrius is a worthy gentleman.

HERMIA

So is Lysander.

THESEUS

In himself he is;
 But in this kind, wanting your father's voice,
 The other must be held the worthier.

HERMIA

I would my father look'd but with my eyes.

THESEUS

Rather your eyes must with his judgment look.

HERMIA

I do entreat your grace to pardon me.
I know not by what power I am made bold,
Nor how it may concern my modesty,
In such a presence here to plead my thoughts;
But I beseech your grace that I may know
The worst that may befall me in this case,
If I refuse to wed Demetrius.

THESEUS

Either to die the death or to abjure
For ever the society of men.
Therefore, fair Hermia, question your desires;
Know of your youth, examine well your blood,
Whether, if you yield not to your father's choice,
You can endure the livery of a nun,
For aye to be in shady cloister mew'd,
To live a barren sister all your life,
Chanting faint hymns to the cold fruitless moon.
Thrice-blessed they that master so their blood,
To undergo such maiden pilgrimage;
But earthlier happy is the rose distill'd,
Than that which withering on the virgin thorn
Grows, lives and dies in single blessedness.

HERMIA

So will I grow, so live, so die, my lord,
Ere I will my virgin patent up
Unto his lordship, whose unwished yoke
My soul consents not to give sovereignty.

THESEUS

Take time to pause; and, by the next new moon--
The sealing-day betwixt my love and me,
For everlasting bond of fellowship--
Upon that day either prepare to die
For disobedience to your father's will,
Or else to wed Demetrius, as he would;
Or on Diana's altar to protest
For aye austerity and single life.

DEMETRIUS

Relent, sweet Hermia: and, Lysander, yield
Thy crazed title to my certain right.

LYSANDER

You have her father's love, Demetrius;
Let me have Hermia's: do you marry him.

EGEUS

Scornful Lysander! true, he hath my love,
And what is mine my love shall render him.
And she is mine, and all my right of her
I do estate unto Demetrius.

LYSANDER

I am, my lord, as well derived as he,
As well possess'd; my love is more than his;

my fortunes every way as fairly rank'd,
If not with vantage, as Demetrius';
And, which is more than all these boasts can be,
I am beloved of beauteous Hermia:
Why should not I then prosecute my right?
Demetrius, I'll avouch it to his head,
Made love to Nedar's daughter, Helena,
And won her soul; and she, sweet lady, dotes,
Devoutly dotes, dotes in idolatry,
Upon this spotted and inconstant man.

THESEUS

I must confess that I have heard so much,
And with Demetrius thought to have spoke thereof;
But, being over-full of self-affairs,
My mind did lose it. But, Demetrius, come;
And come, Egeus; you shall go with me,
I have some private schooling for you both.
For you, fair Hermia, look you arm yourself
To fit your fancies to your father's will;
Or else the law of Athens yields you up--
Which by no means we may extenuate--
To death, or to a vow of single life.
Come, my Hippolyta: what cheer, my love?
Demetrius and Egeus, go along:
I must employ you in some business
Against our nuptial and confer with you
Of something nearly that concerns yourselves.

EGEUS

With duty and desire we follow you.
Exeunt all but LYSANDER and HERMIA

LYSANDER

How now, my love! why is your cheek so pale?
How chance the roses there do fade so fast?

In the example of a client revealing that they plan to murder a former spouse, it states that after the client leaves the therapist calls police. I would be curious to know if the therapist needs to remind the client in session that they have a duty to warn and will be making a report based on ongoing informed consent?

I'm concerned about conflicting information about the Tarasoff (spelling? Sorry) case where duty to inform the possible victim was found to lie with the therapist. This has always been concerning as we don't always have information of contact information of the possible intended victim - but with modern technology it could be argued we could go about finding contact information (direct messaging on social media, etc). Is there any more clarity that can be provided on what is a reasonable expectation of this legal requirement to inform the intended victim vs just police?

Also - for clients that regularly discuss and talk about suicide, with plans and access and means and even a date - but this is their regular state as well - what guidelines can be provided to help navigate this? Some clients would be sent to hospital or called police every session if these guidelines in this draft are followed to the letter.

I would also love some written guidelines for intoxicated clients or clients that disclose they drink and drive or smoke weed and drive etc. I have guidelines I work by already but would find it helpful for the CRPO to outline these as well.

Just some preliminary thoughts. Thanks!

Good morning Mark,

I had a look at the survey. A colleague and I reviewed the guidelines and then did the survey. Of note, It was very short and we didn't elaborate as much on the third question thinking there were more questions to follow. I am happy to look at the guidelines again and do another survey, elaborating as appropriate.

I do question our use of "bodily harm" which does give the impression of physical harm only . Not sure if this is a legal term but it may be misleading.

Guidelines are helpful and a good re-iteration of concepts that should have been instilled via education. I think that most RP's might appreciate a greater focus on the practical side of responding to such matters (ie. consultation, legalities, repercussions)

Well thought out.

I think that it would be important to include more detail about how to address self-harm that is not described by the client as suicidal. I am thinking of eating disorders and other practices that have potential lethality.

Consider adding example of Risk to Therapist by violent partner of a client. Ex, seeing wife as client, she has documented medical history of violence by her husband; she wants to leave him; she pays you with household cheques; he has resources to find you and perhaps direct harm to you the therapist.

Wording for policy / informed consent forms would be helpful as well. More information about client knowledge of a third party at risk would be helpful. Thank you.

Smith vs. Jones (1999) (1scr455) mentions that the danger must be imminent, but this does not appear in the PHIPA concept. It would be great if the guideline could address this difference. Thanks.
